CHALLENGING CLIMATE CLAIMS

Religious Left “baptizing” climate change to increase political power

Using climate agenda to destroy families and the middle class

Washington — The Religious Left has become an invaluable ally to the global cabal, to the World Economic Forum, the United Nations and the World Health Organization, in pushing the man-made climate change narrative. But now, the cabal — which includes many leaders of the Catholic Church — is being challenged.

Recently, Pope Francis lauded the American bishops for their collective stance on climate change, and government efforts pretending to control temperature patterns (which invariably come about by stripping away citizens’ freedoms and economic rights).

Billions in government money as well as collection-plate donations pass from religious leaders to the global-warming lobby, under the guise of “good stewardship of creation” and “social justice.”

But now, political and religious conservatives are joining forces with scientists and climate experts to expose the fraud and misinformation aimed at weakening the American economy and, ultimately, undermining families, making more and more people dependent on Washington.

The Deposit of Faith Coalition will be hosting a press conference at the Four Seasons Hotel Baltimore on Nov. 14, 2023, from 1–3 p.m. to coincide with the annual meeting of the U.S. bishops.

The press conference will feature expert speakers on various aspects of the agenda, including a Nobel Prize winner and leading authorities who know the actual science.

The coalition is challenging the largely Democratic narrative as Campaign ’24 dawns. Religious leaders tout the Democrats’ climate record as “justification” for supporting the Party of Death — but it’s all a lie.

Press conference topics and the associated speakers are as follows:

Good News: There Is No Climate Crisis

Dr. John Clauser, 2022 Nobel Prize laureate in physics

The Intentional Collapse of Our Energy, Transportation and Food Supply

Marc Morano, founder of ClimateDepot.com

The Weaponization of Religion to Push Climate Hysteria

Alex Newman, award-winning international journalist

Enemies of the Republic

Michael Voris, multiple Emmy Award-winning investigative journalist
